

Legal PR.

In high profile legal matters, impact litigation, and crisis management situations, the WLF legal PR team weighs in with authority. Our team of seasoned in-house attorneys, along with pro bono support from leading law firms, make us a powerful advocate for free enterprise. WLF influences public opinion by holding persuasive briefings for the electronic and print media, webcasting seminars, authoring national op-ed articles, publishing highly regarded legal studies in seven different publication formats, and litigating important, precedent-setting cases.

WLF delivers the message.

Leveraging our pragmatic perspective as a non-profit, public interest advocate, WLF supports free enterprise causes with a broad-based communications program that provides timely information, interpretations, and legal opinions from leading experts. Our outreach program disseminates free enterprise messages to major media markets, federal and state judges, legislators, government decision-makers, business leaders, law students, and professors.

WLF produces results.

WLF has litigated more than 1013 cases, participated in 729 administrative and regulatory proceedings, initiated 138 judicial misconduct investigations, filed 165 attorney and judicial reform actions and petitions, and published more than 1,800 legal studies.

Making the case for free enterprise since 1977.
